

Definition for Stormwater Treatment

Treatment of the water within a stormwater treatment pond occurs in two phases. The first phase is the removal the sediments by slowing the water velocity thereby allowing the sediments to “fall-out” of the water column and onto the bottom of the pond. The second phase involves diverting the water into a heavily vegetated area for the uptake of nutrients and metals by plants and algae.